During commision report para 7.19.46 During the course of discussions with CPMFs, it was brought to the notice of the Commission that officers of and upto the rank of Commandant in CPMFs are allowed use of one Constable for attending to telephones and looking after guests at their residence. Officers above the rank of Commandants are allowed two Constables for this purpose. In the present scenario, employment of trained Constables/other combatants just for attending telephones and guests of individual officers is totally unnecessary and also affects the morale of the trained Constabulary adversely besides impinging on their training/readiness. The Commission recommends that use of Constables/other combatants for attachment with specific officers as Suraksha Sahayaks at their respective residences
